Welles Hose Hillbilly Wedding Postponed to Next Week

Weather and road conditions cause putting comedy over until next Thursday and Friday nights in City Hall—New talent to be added during week.

"The Hillbilly Wedding" is postponed to next Thursday and Friday, February 29 and March 1 owing to bad weather. Announcement of the change was made after a consultation of the Directress Miss Dolly White, members of the Welles Hose Company and members of the cast. The show, a farce comedy is being sponsored by the firemen to raise funds for local fire fighting and for the Welles Hose program for the coming year.

The list of the members of the main cast was announced last week. The chief actors are the bride, Wesley Smith and the groom, Charles Whitmore. In addition there will be several specialty numbers including a dance by the Darling Dimple Dancers including Theodore Laffkas, Louis Handy, Frank Finnerty and John Davis.

Other special numbers in the show will include an accordion solo by Wilson Horton of Woodhull; a guitar solo by the Lone Ranger Ivan Stoddard; a specialty dance by Miss Personality, Miss Oneta Smith a levee dance by Pete Whitmore; some hillbilly music by the Rhythm Rangers including Walter Perkins, Shannon Bovee, Hubert Dinny and Robert Bullock.

The Will Rogers of Addison will give a monologue on current events after which the Musical Stewards will give a series of specialty numbers. This will be followed by an accordion solo by Stanley Ward.

Two sets of square dancers will appear at various times during the show. The first set will be of the teams of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Orr, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jones, and a pair to be chosen. The second set will be made up of high school students.

Orman Whitmore will call for the senior set and Charles Whitmore will call for the junior set. Mrs. Orman Whitmore will play piano for both and Walter Perkins will play violin.

The members of the company regret having to postpone the affair.

Brisco Petitions Being Circulated

Petitions are being circulated for Clarence H. Briscoe, Corning city attorney, for reelection as Republican State Committeeman. He now represents the First Steuben District and seeks that position again. He has been long active in the GOP party councils of the county since beginning law practice in Corning in 1928. He has served as city legal advisor for the past 10 years without interruption. At present Attorney and Mrs. Briscoe are in Florida, and are expected to return February 26.

Fish & Game Club Membership Drive Underway Here

The annual drive for membership has been started by the Addison Fish and Game Club, local representatives of a statewide conservation group. The club is interested in the preservation of game, the stocking of streams and rivers in the vicinity and in the care of trees and shrubs.

They have a membership of 100 men of Addison, Woodhull and vicinity. During the life of the club thousands of pheasants have been released for hunters, fishing streams have been restocked and other wild life has been fed and cared for by the members.

They have taken an active part in the deer program for the Southern Tier of New York and set up programs of benefit to farmers, hunters and conservation. Outstanding speakers of various phases of conservation have been brought to Addison to speak to the members. Two outstanding accomplishments of the club are the erection of a club house with skeet and rifle range facilities and also the promotion of a huge field day in October to which 1500 sportsmen and their wives and friends from the vicinity are invited and attend.

The membership now is being arranged to continue to April of 1941 under the direction of past president, Vernon Adsit.

Miss Mary Hickey and Mrs. Anna Loy spent Sunday in Corning.

but feel that with weather conditions being what they are in the vicinity it is best to call the show off for this week and present the production on next Thursday and Friday nights in the Addison Town Hall at 8 o'clock.

There will be a brass sextet from high school under the direction of Musical Director, Glenn L. Sprague. The members of the group are Peggy Knebel, Frances Colburn, Edward Russ, Richard Gladstone, Matthew Whitmore and Robert Burlingame. In addition Frances Colburn will play a trombone solo. Forrest Rouse and his electric guitar will be on the program for several numbers as will little Miss Ruth Ann Smyth, who will play a series of piano solos.

Redeemer Men To Hear Bishop Speak Sunday

Laymen of the Church of the Redeemer will meet Sunday morning to hear a message from the Rt. Rev. Bartel H. Reinheimer, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Rochester. He will speak over Station WHAM from 8:45 to 9 A. M.

The occasion is the Annual Corporate Communion of the Bishops' Men, the laymen's organization of the Diocese, and the presentation of their thank offering.

The men of the Church of the Redeemer will attend the 8 o'clock service and Corporate Communion and will then go to the guild hall for a breakfast. A radio for the reception of the Bishop's message will be set up there.

Howard Strait represents the Central Committee of the Bishops' Men in this community who are devoting their thank offering this year to the support of Miss Marian Latz of St. Andrew's Church, Rochester, as a missionary in India.

Miss Latz left the United States in November, 1938. She has just completed a year's study of the Telugu language and is now a teacher at the Sharkey School, Masulipatnam, South India.

Following her graduation from the University of Rochester, Miss Latz studied in the New York School for Deaconesses. She will work for five years in the Diocese of Dornakal under the direction of the native Anglican Bishop Azariah.

Grange Friday Has Two Speakers

James Brighton, past state master of the New England Grange, will be the principal speaker at the meeting of Addison Grange to be held Friday night in Grange Hall. He will speak on "The Terrain of New England". Another speaker on the program will be Walter Johnson, Bath, soil conservation officer for this vicinity. He will speak on the soil conservation program for Steuben County. This will be the first full meeting since the Grange Hall was repaired and members are looking forward to seeing a changed meeting place.

A DAUGHTER

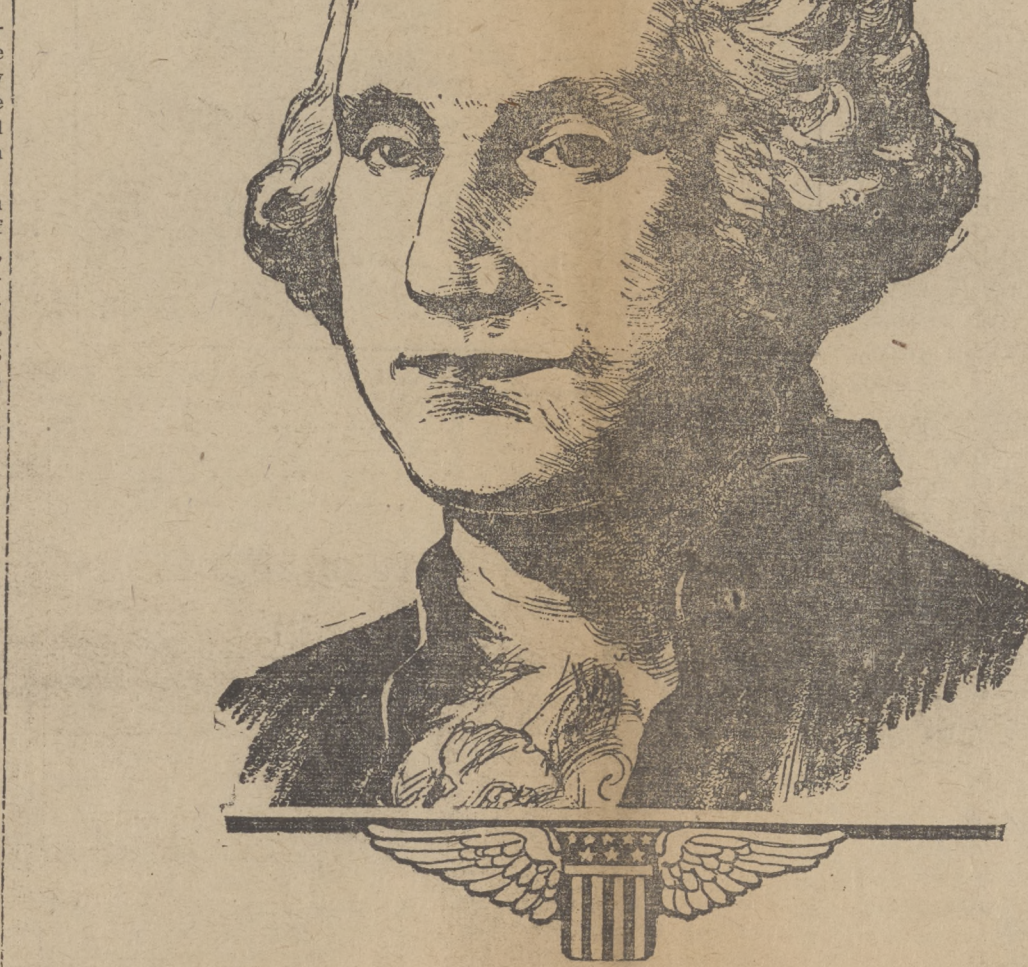

Mr. and Mrs. Elwin Miller, Blossburg, former residents of Addison are the parents of a daughter, Norma Jean, born February 6, 1940. She is a granddaughter of Mrs. Waldo Butler, West Front street. Mr. Miller is now connected with the Prudential Insurance Company in Blossburg.

Tuscarora O.E.S. Opens Current Season

The first meeting of the Sunshine Circle of Tuscarora Chapter O. E. S. for the current season was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Jay Mose, Tuscarora street, with Mrs. Albert Root as assistant hostess.

Cards and other games were enjoyed with prizes being awarded Mrs. George Freeman and Miss Leanne Runyan.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses to Mrs. Wyckoff Sherwood, Mrs. Maple Woodhouse, Mrs. John Russ, Mrs. Freeman, Mrs. Stanley Bebout, Mrs. Ruth Gillespie, Mrs. R. E. Dyer, Miss Runyan, Mrs. Reuben Brown, Mrs. Lewis Manley, Mrs. Burdette Beers, Mrs. Hubert Orr, Mrs. Frank Hess, Mrs. Bessie Slocum and Mrs. Kenneth McCaig.

Storm Postpones Many Organization Meetings

Snow caused cancellation of many events in this village during the past week. Roads of the vicinity were blocked so travel was difficult. Driveways were blocked so cars were useless.

Among events postponed were: Ladies' Night program of the Advertising Club, meeting of the Dairy-men's League producers of Addison, the monthly supper meeting of the New York-Penn Firemen, Daughters of the American Revolution and many others. School was closed for three days also.

Addison Hit By Second Snow Storm Sunday

Addison and vicinity had just dug itself from a storm and cleared streets and sidewalks Sunday and was congratulating itself on getting out of the worst storm in years, when Sunday's snow storm struck the vicinity. It snowed four inches from Sunday night to Monday morning, a snow much heavier and more compact than that of the past week.

The additional snow tied up traffic on the hills so that many farmers are still snow bound and streets in the villages are narrow owing to high snow banks on either side. Efforts to take away the snow have been tried but a great bulk of it still remains.

Tuesday noon firemen tried flushing the snow away but could not do it as it was packed so tightly. The county plows helped the local situation by widening streets when shovels failed.

The town plow was put in operation on the hills and opened many roads so that milk could be brought to Addison by producers. Mail deliveries were considerably curtailed or abandoned altogether on some of the days during the early part of the week.

Warm spells made puddles of water on walks and roads in the village and vicinity with the result that walking was difficult and driving still more so. Many cars are still snow bound after having been dug out of the storm of last week.

The nights have been cold so that the melting and running off has been gradual this week, a condition which is being hoped for throughout the removal of effects of the two storms.

INSTALLATION POSTPONED

Due to weather conditions the installation of the officers of Woodhull Chapter O. E. S. was postponed until the next meeting, March 2.

Caucus Sessions Saturday Night

Voters of Addison are invited to take part in the caucus sessions of their respective parties to be held Saturday night in the City Hall. The Republican voters will gather in the court room while the Democratic caucus will be held in the Phoenix Hose Rooms. The meetings will be held at 8 o'clock.

There are two vacancies on the village board to be filled at the March elections. One trustee to replace the late Fred Clark Republican, for the north side of the village and the second to succeed Russell Allen, Democrat on the south side. Mr. Allen is expected to be a candidate to succeed himself.

It is also expected the two major parties will fuse on Mr. Allen as a candidate for the second district. Up to the time of publication there has been no self announced candidate seeking the office on the north side to the best of the knowledge of the writer.

With no contests in the offing at the present time it is believed there will be a small vote out for the caucus sessions and that they will be brief and run in traditional fashion. For the caucus is an American traditional institution.

Miss Doris Martin, senior in Addison High School is now with Mrs. D. H. Moore.

Mrs. Arthur Newsom Passes To Her Reward Wed. Morning

Mrs. Clara Bridgeman Newsom died Wednesday morning, February 21, 1940 at her home on South St. She had suffered with heart trouble for several years and had failed rapidly this winter.

Mrs. Newsom was born on the Goodhue, August 18, 1859, the daughter of Otis and Elizabeth Wright Bridgeman. Her birthplace was the farm where Mrs. Jessie Hovey now resides. Her first school days were in a private school which stood near the site of the Bridgeman District school. Mrs. Newsom was probably one of the few living persons who could recall when this latter school was built. After completing her school days in the country school Mrs. Newsom attended Addison High School and taught for three terms.

In 1883 she was married to Arthur Newsom, also of the Goodhue, her marriage occurring on the same day as that of her brother, Judson Erdigman. Mr. Newsom died February 10, 1932. The couple resided in Elmira and Addison where Mr. Newsom was one of the two first village mail carriers. To them was born three children; Howard who

Woodhull Boys Join Boy Scout Troop 27

The Rev. David Davis, Woodhull has been appointed assistant Scoutmaster of Troop 27 of this village it was announced at a meeting held last week. He will bring with him a group of boys from Woodhull who will affiliate with the local troop, of which William Miller is Scoutmaster.

CORRECTION

In the report of the account of the Addison High School students visiting at Cornell University during Farm and Home Week, the Advertiser stated that Miss Doris Everingham was in charge of the home economics girls. Miss Phyllis Harley was in charge of the home economics girls. Miss Everingham is commercial teacher in AHS.

DAR Meeting Friday Afternoon

The Onwentsia Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution will meet this Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The meeting was scheduled for last Friday but owing to weather conditions was postponed to this week. Mrs. Ray Brown will give a reading on "Abe Lincoln—" in Illinois. Mrs. Wilfred Miller will be hostess and she will be assisted by Mrs. Fred Wilcox and Mrs. Nina Mann.

Corning Northside Club Entertains Addison Group

President George Keenan extends welcome for Northsiders and Milton Crane responds for Addisonites—Hear interesting talk on Civic Music Association—Game program follows meeting.

Twenty-three members of the Advertising Club were guests of the Corning Northside Club at a tureen supper in the Northside Club rooms Allen Block, Monday night. The group were welcomed by President George Keenan. He presented President Milton Crane of the Advertising Club, who in turn introduced the members of the Advertising Club. He also thanked the members of the Northside Club for the invitation and kindnesses shown.

Mr. Keenan then outlined some of the purposes of the Northside Club for the visitors. He then said that Mrs. Porter of the Civic Music Association had asked for time at a meeting to have a speaker and President Kresge of the Civic Music Association would present that speaker. Mr. Kresge in turn presented Edward Schwaner of the Civic Community Music Association of New York. He outlined the plan of securing memberships in the association before securing talent and operating on a budget in 300 cities for over 20 years and presenting the best in music and dancing. He mentioned the plan has been in operation 13 years in Corning and during that time over 38 concerts have been given without a deficit. No admissions are sold at the doors and admission to concerts is by membership card only. There are no reserved seats. At least three concerts will be scheduled. The Don Cossack Male Chorus and dancers will be one presentation and the others will be determined by the amount of money raised. Ticket sale closes Saturday. In Addison Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Knebel are in charge of ticket sales.

The Rev. John V. Axtell of the Addison Club offered grace and also acted as song leader for a group of old favorite songs. Some informal Valentine mail was delivered for a series of laughs. Tribute was paid to Bob Watson and members of his committee for the splendid supper.

Visitors and club members then indulged in a series of games including deck shovelboard, billiards, dominoes, pinocle, bridge, and other games. The Addisonites were very appreciative of the courtesies shown them and the good time.

Those from Addison were: President Milton Crane, secretary, Ralph B. Dykins, the Rev. Axtell the Rev. Mondula C. Johns, Charles Crane, Walter Goff, Charles Salerno, Irving R. Gladstone, Bernard Wilson, Glenn L. Sprague, Kenneth McCaig, Frank B. Finnerty, Will B. Leete, Leon Callahan, John Vine, Harry Mullen, Samuel LaGrange, Bligh W. Chatfield, John B. Davis, Winfield S. Long, Guy Ricker and David and Sam Cohen.

Editor Elkins Masonic Speaker

H. O. Elkins, editor and publisher of the Bath Courier was the speaker at the program of the Addison Masonic Lodge Tuesday evening. He spoke on "What it Takes" and drew on the lives of February's two famous men, Washington and Lincoln and also upon his own personal experiences in China and in Europe for supplemental information for his splendid talk. Editor Elkins has traveled extensively and in addition is a publisher of several years experience on metropolitan and country weekly papers. He was presented by Past District Deputy Charles L. Crane of the local lodge.

Tuesday night was guest night. After the regular lodge meeting, which was in charge of Master Earl Wilson, the meeting was opened to guests and after the speaking refreshments were served. The committee in charge of the affair was composed of Coral Payne, Ralph B. Dykins, Burdette Beers, Wendell Hewson and Kenneth McCaig. There were about 60 present.

W. R. Perry at Appleale Plant in Medina

Willis R. Perry of the Internal Revenue Service was at Medina, N. Y., from the 13th to the 17th of February to supervise the production of "Appleale", an apple champagne made by the Appleale Company, Inc. This is a new drink being put out and the Internal Revenue Department is actively interested in its development and production.

The second in the series of informal Masonic dances was held Friday night in the Masonic Hall under the auspices of the program committee headed by Earl Wilson. There were 20 couples present for the program of round and square dances. Orman Whitmore and son, Pete Whitmore, were in charge of the square dancing program. Refreshments were served at midnight. The success of these informal gatherings insures their continuance throughout the winter months.

Odd Fellows Continue Dance Series Friday

Another in a series of mid-winter dancing parties for members of the Odd Fellows, their wives and friends will be held Friday night in Odd Fellows Hall. There will be round and square dancing.

Dancing will begin at 9 o'clock and continue until one. These dances are attracting many high school students by virtue of the music and program presented.

UNSUNG HEROES

The men who manned the snow-plows during last week's storm have well been called the "unsung heroes". To them came the great task of trying to keep roads open to travel under conditions which made their job an almost impossible task. The plows had to go through and the storm had to be fought under conditions which required the exercise of almost super-human effort.

Throughout Tuesday night, Wednesday and most of Wednesday night the snow fell furiously, blanketing the highways and making visibility nearly zero. The wind whipped the snow into drifts and filled the air to the saturation point with the particles of fluff that piled higher and higher on every hand. Under those conditions the highway truck drivers had to battle to keep open roads.

The story of the work of any one of these men would make pale by comparison the most exciting book of fiction adventure. There was nothing imagined about the things they were facing—it was the real thing. A blizzard which swept like a gale and chilled one's bones to the marrow as he piloted a snow-plow through the drifts for endless mile after mile—hour after hour. Many trucks became stuck in the drifts—many slid off slippery banks to end up in wreckage. But the roads had to be cleared and the fight went on—hour after hour the struggle of trucks and men against the unfeeling, ruthless elements.

Nor were the snow plowmen the only heroes of the occasion. Through the section many school bus drivers with loads of children were cast in new roles as they did the seemingly impossible to get their charges safely within the circle of home firelight. One driver at Savona worked for some ten hours delivering his children and took the last three to their door on the backs of two borrowed horses which he led through drifts up to his own waist. Another waded through drifts with a child on his back to complete the safe convoy of those entrusted to his care.

A few days ago when a group of school bus drivers, who are members of a safety association met, Frank H. Smith, district superintendent of schools, lauded them for their loyalty to duty. "I do not think the name 'bus driver' is the best which could be applied to you", said Mr. Smith. "You are far more than that". He was right, the name is insufficient to describe the fibre of the men who transport children to school under trying circumstances.

It does not take a battlefield to make a hero, nor a medal given to all who earn them for heroism. Many a man in a bus drivers' uniform who safely took home his children after school—many a man who piloted his snowplow through the drifts last week, definitely has the qualities which make a hero. They may be unsung, they will almost surely be unfeted, but under common garments beat as brave hearts as if the uniform was that of a soldier.

Nor do they seek or want the applause of the crowds. They have a job to do and without any fuss or fanfare they do it just as a part of every day work. They bring to mind an old song which was sung frequently forty years ago, and still lives on in the minds of many who heard it—is equally true of many who never heard it. The song—a question and answer by a boy and his father—ran something like this:

"What is it makes our country great,
Please tell me daddy, dear;
In history whose name should we love best?
In school they teach that Washington,
Was Father of our land,
That lots have served us as no other man;
But who's the one the only one,
The country always needs, who serves us as no other can?"

"Whatever you are, or wherever you be,
At home or afar, on land or the sea,
There's no brighter star though
Of humble degree,
Though no one his name recalls;
The man in the blue, and the man in the gold,
Has done his part well,
Let his fame ne'er grow old,
But brighter than all, is the one,
That they call,
The man in the overalls!"

THE BIG STORM

Local people were given a sample, last week, of the kind of winter prevalent in most parts of this state every year. Twenty-four hours of drifting snowstorm almost paralyzed business for an entire day and completely tied up traffic, except for well traveled streets and highway arteries. Yet, with all the inconveniences and hardship imposed by the storm, folks in general seemed to accept the unexpected weather in the best of humor. On every hand was the evidence of laughing in the face of adversity, and those caught in any dilemma found neighbors on every hand ready to help push their cars out of snow-drifts.

A storm like that of last week is a real novelty in the little, invisible bowl which exists almost unheralded in the topography roughly defined by the basin stretching from near Woodhull to the vicinity of East Corning. It well might be called the Corning-Addison immunity bowl, for this section is generally immune from heavy storms such as those that recur time after time nearly every winter at Buffalo, Syracuse, Batavia, Watertown and other points in New York.

Hence, it happens that many young people in this community have lived to their "teen" age without ever before seeing a blizzard like that of last week. To many of these youths the storm was an adventure of a lifetime, and probably many will be telling their children and grandchildren of the big storm of '40 when roads were blocked, schools closed and a score perished.

Whether it is to our advantage to live in a small region generally free from snow depends quite largely upon the point of view. If we desire to escape the manual labor of shoveling snow and wish to use a car for every rod of travel, then we look upon heavy snow as a nuisance. But if we happen to own a farm we can see great benefit in stored up water for next year's crops in the white blanket. And if we are young enough there is great adventure to be remembered a lifetime.

A VICIOUS TAX CIRCLE

Some 500 pieces of real estate which were sold by the County Treasurer for delinquent taxes this month did not find a private bidder and were struck off to Steuben County. This means that you, and every other citizen of Steuben County who owns real estate is now a part owner of some 500 new pieces of land you never expected to own—land you quite probably never have seen.

On first thought this seems like something to feel puffed up about—becoming part owner of land you never have seen. But there is another side to the question—a side which robs us of all the joy, for in becoming part owner of those pieces of land you are actually raising your own taxes on what land you wholly owned before. For every time the County of Steuben bids in a piece of land at tax sale that piece of land ceases to be taxable by the County and the share of the tax burden it formerly bore has to be distributed over the other property in Steuben.

This process has now been going on for a number of years and the situation is really becoming acute. Occasionally one of these pieces is sold to another private owner and, of course, some of them are redeemed by former owners, but each year the land the county owns becomes larger and larger. And the tax on your property grows correspondingly large. Some persons even derive a certain amount of temporary benefit from the situation for many owners of property sold to the County are continuing to live on the land. They pay no rent and they pay no taxes, and some of them probably figure they are better off than if they still owned the land.

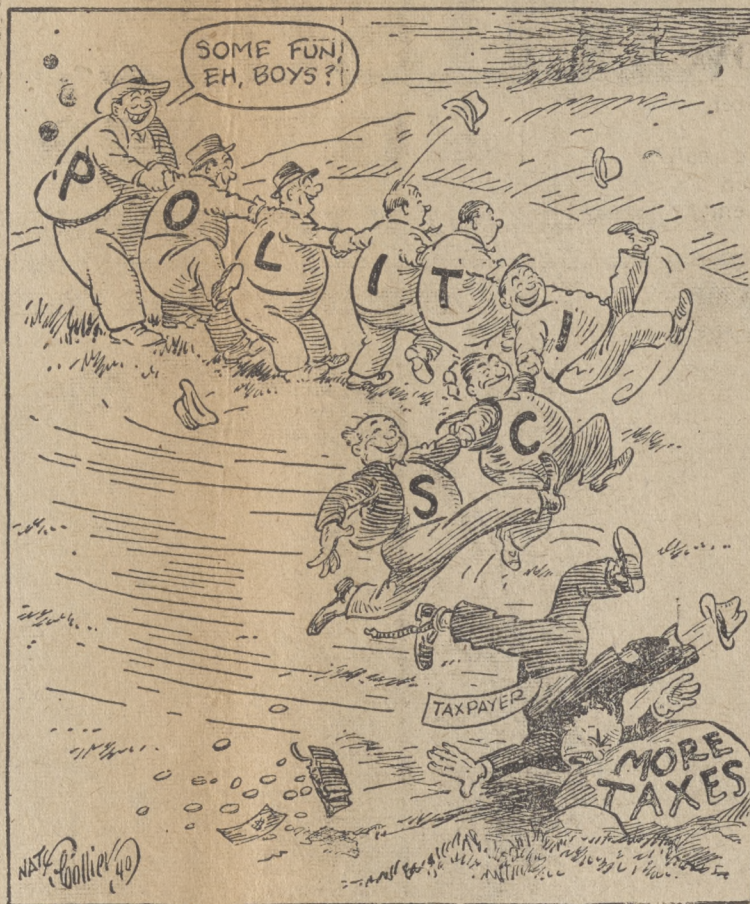

What are the people of Steuben going to do if we continue this vicious circle of higher taxes, less land to tax and still higher taxes as a result? They can inquire into the causes for the ever ascending costs in Steuben and demand drastic cuts in the expenditures. Of course if expenditures are cut certain services must also be cut, that is to be expected. If it is a case of doing without caviar in our own diet now, or eventually having no food, let's do without the caviar quickly.

A large amount of taxes now being raised are going for relief in one form or another. That is something which needs looking into pretty thoroughly. Individuals who are chiseling on relief should be spotted and taken care of in another way—parents whose children are in boarding homes should be checked on to see if they have anything to contribute to their offsprings' support. It is high time some of the irresponsible are lined up and made to share some of the load now resting too heavily upon the taxpayers' shoulders.

Eventually this vicious circle of mounting taxes and less land to tax must be halted or the taxpayers of the county will stage a strike. That would make the politicians sit up and take notice, speedily. If a few taxpayers, here and there do not pay their taxes the land is sold or passes to the County and the situation drifts along. But, once fifty per cent or more taxpayers sat down and refused to pay until expenses were cut, ways and means would quickly be found to do that cutting all along the line.

The State Legislature is again becoming conscious that the taxpayers are in earnest about economy, and the huge budget is about to be overhauled. Steuben County taxes were never higher than this year. It is time an organized protest be heard from one end of the County to the other.

CRACKING THE WHIP

The Corning Northside Club boys sure put on a good feed and entertainment for the members of the Addison Ad Club Monday night. And I never saw such a bunch of domino players in a club in my life, and do they know how to play the game? Their play facilities just made one want to enter some event in the spacious club rooms. The club is sure an inspiration and one of the nicest club propositions I have seen in some time.

You should have seen Bligh Chatfield playing shovelboard, Bernard Wilson and Joe Sprague shooting pool and some of the other Ad Club members eat. In fact the last named reached such proportions that President Milton Crane said he was ashamed to introduce some of the Addison fellows to their hosts.

Attended a local affair recently and during a lull in the proceedings took a look at some of the hats women are wearing. I thought all the goofy ones were in cartoons and newspaper ads, but I thought wrong for a lot of them are right here in Addison. There was everything from little button-like affairs on the top of the heads to full face-covering affairs that might lead one to ask some of the pretty girls, "Why hide the light under a bushel?"

The Rambler has rambled about the village listening to various protests against this and that and has come to the following conclusions based on his observations: The villagers will oppose the purchase of a new fire truck to increase taxes, are in favor of removing the Canisteo River Dam for flood prevention, have given up hope of a new Main street bridge over the river and want something done to solve the parking problem here.

Gather round pinocchio fans and hear the story of one of the best hands ever held by the Rambler. In a four-handed game last week playing auction with four in the kitty, the Rambler bid 350 with several clubs, lacking a queen in his hand. When the kitty was turned up there were two queens and a king in the kitty which gave the Rambler two complete runs in clubs and a nine spot for 11 playing cards. That made 1500 as we were playing and then 250 on the tricks taken for a swell hand.

Several residents of the southside have uttered most violent protest over the fact that the city hall sidewalk was not shoveled when other walks around the village were taken care of. It seems that slush and high snows inconvenienced several women and not a few of the men. And speaking of sidewalks there are some property owners who have left snow on their walks to make it mean for people to pass to and fro. There is about three inches of slush on the City Hall sidewalk.

Saw an incident one day last week which did not add much to the prestige of truck drivers, and is one of the reasons why people want trucks off the road. One truck driver can snail for several others. The driver was in the center of the road and failed to give way to a car wanting to get by. Another truck driver parked double here recently and a driver of a passenger car parked at the curb had to get police to have the truck moved.

Lou Hill played smart last week and as a result got his feedstore driveway cleared of snow. He saw one of the county plows going by the place and yelled at the driver. The driver turned the plow, drove into Hill's and asked Lou what he wanted. Lou said, "Nothing, but thanks for plowing a way into the place".

The storm has been quite a topic of conversation here during the past week, for the snow is the most there has been in the memory of many of the older residents. And then, just as things got cleared along came some snow Sunday night and piled up four inches more, and the second snow was worse than the first.

Everyone seems to be talking about the potential danger if a sudden thaw comes and all the moisture above ground starts to run off. The ground was frozen hard before the snow came, so it is expected that when the runoff does come, it will not go into the ground, but seek channels above ground.

Did you ever hear of so many birthdays as there have been this month? It seems that about every other person you meet has a birthday this month.

If you want to see some of the dignified men of this village in ridiculous actions, you should see the Welles-Hoe Company comedy in the village hall. Especially when you see Messrs. Handy, Finnelly, Laikas and Davis in action and hear Gus Vona cry.

That's All.

Finishing Floors

Whether your floors are old or new, they can be made and kept attractive by proper finishing. After a thorough sanding, either by hand or by an electric sander, the floors should first be cleaned and dried and then the finish applied. (Open grained woods, such as oak, need a grain filler like the natural color of the wood.)

Three types of finishes are available: those that sink into the wood, those that stay on top, and those that harden the wood. Here are directions for several common finishes, suggested by the New York State College of Home Economics:

Oil and Turpentine: Oil and turpentine finish sinks into the wood, preserves and nourishes it. It is rather hard to apply but has a lovely sheen, it lasts many years, does not show scratches or water-spots, and worn places may be mended.

For the first coat, use a mixture of 1/3 boiled linseed oil and 2/3 turpentine. Paint it on a small area at a time, about a yard square. Wipe off the surplus and rub this spot with a flannel cloth wrapped around a brick or flat-iron for about twenty minutes, or until no sign of oil remains on the surface. (This is important because if the surplus oil is allowed to remain it will become sticky and hold dust.) Continue this painting and wiping process over the entire floor.

After several weeks, repeat the process using 2/3 boiled linseed oil and 1/3 turpentine. In about a month repeat this process again. When the wood is filled and polished the finish is complete and should need only wiping with a clean dust mop to keep it in condition for a year or two at least. This oil and turpentine finish is good on all but the soft woods; old woods will absorb the moist oil and will look darker than originally.

Wax: Wax is one of the surface finishes; either a clear floor wax or a colored one may be used. The colored wax makes a warm looking floor. Use a small amount of wax and do a great deal of rubbing, following the grain of the wood. A flannel cloth may be used to polish it by hand, or a heavy weight inside of the cloth, or an electric brush polisher may be used. The floor will need to be waxed every two or three weeks for the first six months after finishing, and after that about twice a year. This finish has a soft sheen and is easy to apply and care for. A dry dust mop may be used to care for it, and worn spots can be mended without showing.

Sealers: These finishes penetrate the wood, harden and preserve it. Several makes are on the market. They are a liquid applied with a brush and each make has its own directions. If these floors are kept waxed, the sealer is supposed to last a long time. This is one of the newer finishes.

Hi-Lights and Shadows of the Week's News

A dead-lock between the government and the army is imminent in Sweden. One Scandinavian newspaper has predicted that King Gustaf might abdicate if the army should insist on active participation with the Finns in the Soviet war. Most news men believed the King would win out with his policy of non-intervention. Gustaf fears official aid to Finland might bring military pressure from Germany.

The British House of Commons cheered Chamberlain's report of the Royal Navy's seizure of about 300 captive sailors from the Nazi ship Altmark in Norwegian waters. Germany protested vigorously to Norway over the incident and the Norwegian government has sent notes to London protesting armed invasion of territorial waters. It is believed Norway will permit the Nazi ship to leave when it is freed from the rocks on which it was crowded by the British. Britain wants the Altmark interned for the duration of the war.

British authorities state shipping losses were the greatest last week of any since the war started. Five British and 15 neutral vessels were lost. The British claimed four to six Nazi submarines sunk.

War observers believe Turkey is preparing to enter the war on the side of the allies. The Turks invoked an emergency defense law this week which may, or may not indicate early intervention thought probable since German experts were recently evicted from the Ottoman Empire.

The Finns seemed to be holding firm on their new defense wall in the Mannerheim line after falling back to within some six miles of Viipuri the first of the week. They have reported the annihilation of the Soviet 18th Division near Lake Ladoga. Soviet attacks continue in the Karelian peninsula.

"Jimmy" Roosevelt's wife has now filed suit for divorce. The President's son started his divorce proceedings a few days earlier.

Republican legislative leaders stated this week they thought it unlikely any cut would be made in educational state aid. It is hoped that ways may be arranged to give full state aid and still avoid the extra income tax levy.

The President has been cruising through quiet waters on his inspection tour of the Panama Canal zone. He is looking over the defenses on the Atlantic end of the canal.

A less high-handed statement from the Japanese government a few days ago leads to belief the Nipponese may be wishing to cease the long-drawn struggle in China. Jap spokesmen indicated they might now deal with Chiang Kai Shek, where previously they boasted the war would continue until he was chased clear into Tibet or surrendered.

Soon after the Republican convention announced the date of the C. O. P. national convention June 24, Jim Farley gave out the Democratic convention date as July 15.

1940 Emergency Loans

Now Available

Emergency crop and feed loans for 1940 are now available to farmers in all areas as part of the regular loan program of the Farm Credit Administration to enable farmers to file their applications early and arrange their 1940 program. Checks will be issued on approved applications when funds are required.

C. Bert Smith, Field Supervisor for the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Section of the Farm Credit Administration will take applications at the Post Office in Bath, N. Y. on Monday, February 26th. These loans will be made, as in the past, only to farmers whose cash requirements are small and who cannot obtain a loan from any other source including production credit associations, banks, or other proposals or weddings.

WASHINGTON NEWS

Viewed from a world standpoint the United States occupies not more than 6 1/2 per cent of the land surface and contributes a corresponding 6 1/2 per cent of the world population. But the United States possesses 45 per cent of the wealth of the world. In its treasury lies 50 per cent of the monetary gold in the possession of mankind. It has 17 billions of the 29 or 30 billions in all the world—20,000 tons of it, enough to load a freight train five miles long. This wealth, in the form of sterilized gold, is one of our gravest problems.

The birth rate in big cities is barely more than sufficient to maintain present population. More people are dying in the cities than in the country and birth rates in rural areas are higher than in the cities generally.

A mail canvass, recently conducted by the Bureau of Census, indicates that the state tax collections for 1939 were 18.5 per cent greater than in 1937, one-half of which is accounted for by sales taxes of all kinds. There are over 180,000 political units that have the power to levy taxes and incur debt.

Inside information is that the plight of the Finnish army is far more serious than censored reports would lead the public to believe. While the Finns have fought gallantly, the sheer weight of Russian manpower is said to be making their situation desperate.

Latest estimates place the total number of unemployed at 9,400,000 only four per cent below the level of a year ago. December and January have been busy months for manufacturing industries. As a consequence, factory employment increased by almost three-quarters of a million. Other non-farm industries put on another 500,000. Over the same period, however, 600,000 new young persons have entered the labor market. At the same time farm employment has declined. The result is that unemployment has been reduced only fractionally.

Senator Sheppard (Tex.) recently announced he would seek re-election in 1942 in the hope of breaking the record for length of service in Congress. He first came to Congress as a representative in 1902 and was elected to the Senate in 1913. Only five have exceeded his record of service: "Uncle Joe" Cannon (Ill.) 46 years; Morrill (Vt.) 43 years; Frye (Me.) 40 years; Gillett (Mass.) 33 years; Swanson (Va.) 33 years.

The American Ambassador to Russia came near losing his job the other day when the House was considering the appropriation bill for the State Department. The motion to eliminate the money for the Ambassador to Russia lost by a few votes. It lost because those proposing the motion did not consult the President or the Secretary of State and because Uncle Sam right now has to have eyes and ears all over the world and because our first fire of defense has to be kept intact these days even in Russia. Experts indicated that the elimination of our ambassador in Russia now would have hurt instead of helped Finland, which was the object of the motion. Anyway, the House went on record about how it feels about Communist Russia.

private concerns or individuals. As in former years, the money loaned will be limited to the applicant's necessary cash needs in preparing and cultivating his 1940 crops or in purchasing or producing feed for his livestock.

Borrowers who obtain loans for the production of cash crops are required to give as security a first lien on the crop financed or, in the case of loans for the purchase or production of feed for livestock, a first lien on the livestock to be fed.

Leap Year Unproductive In Addison As Yet

The Leap Year extra day will come along next week on February 29, marking the extra day for the year. In spite of the extra day, February seems a short month. But this story started out about Leap Year and must continue about it. The fact is that in spite of the lonely girls in the vicinity and the eligible men available, there have been no Leap Year proposals in Addison to the best of the knowledge of the writer.

Valentine's Day has been here and gone and the Valentine business was reported as better than in the past several years, especially among the smaller valentines and still there have been no Leap Year credit associations, banks, or other proposals or weddings.

Sports—

Punch drunk boxers, caused from pounding on the head, may become a thing of the past if a new sponge rubber head-guard originating in Maryland is adopted. It does not protect the eyes, nose and ears, but does the balance of the head.

Japanese swimmers have been conducting tests to prove that fresh water is slower than salt water for swimmers by about one second in 100 meters.

Big Bill Dineen, former American League baseball umpire is now running the Syracuse Stars hockey club. The town is ripe for hockey and Bill is making some money for himself.

Basketball rules officials are trying to determine what kind of ball should be the official ball for it seems there are three kinds being used, sewed lacing and seams, molded rubber with fake seams and ball with sewed seams and no lacing.

Mrs. Frances Hart

Funeral services for the late Mrs. Frances Hart, Addison Hill, were held Saturday morning from St. Thomas Church in Elkland after which the body was taken to Pater-son, N. J., for burial.

Mrs. Hart was born Frances Murray, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John D. Murray. She received her early education in the schools of Elkland, Elmira and New York. She engaged in secretarial work in New York for several years prior to her marriage to the late Edward J. Hart. They lived in Brooklyn and Ridgewood, N. J., for several years.

She leaves a son Frederick, Clifton, N. J. and a daughter, Mrs. Mary Monaghan, Newark, N. J., and the brother, Martin Murray, Addison Hill, with whom she has been living for four years. A sister, Mrs. Thomas Murphy lives in Penn Yan.

CROQUETTES are fine for Using Up Leftover Meat

says Dorothy Greig

SUGGESTIONS for croquettes should really be headed "How to make a cup or two of meat feed a whole family". For that's about what happens. The tag ends of roast, or the tail

Leftover lamb fashioned into cutlets and served on rice emerges as a delicious, hot main course of the steak reposing in the refrigerator at first glance look none too productive of a main course for a hungry family.

But that meat can be chopped or ground and combined with other ingredients to make tender, crumb-rolled croquettes and cutlets. Well browned and smoking hot, with a vegetable or two, they furnish a plentiful and savory main course.

For instance, these cutlets are made of cold leftover lamb:

Lamb Cutlets

1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup
2 1/2 cups cooked lamb, ground
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon parsley, chopped

Dippings for Cutlets:

Flour
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon water or milk
Fine crumbs

Empty a can of cream of mushroom soup into a saucepan. Stir until smooth, then heat. Add the ground lamb and mix well. Put in the lemon juice and chopped parsley at the end; then chill thoroughly. Shape into small cutlets (chasing so it resembles the meat portion of a rib chop). Then dip the cutlet in a mixture of flour and fine crumbs (1/2 flour and 3/4 crumbs), then in the egg mixed with the milk or water, and roll in fine crumbs. Fry in hot, deep fat (365°-385°F.) for 2-5 minutes, or until well-browned. Makes 6-8 cutlets.

Leftover ham croquettes are as tender as these:

Ham and Egg Croquettes

1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup
6 hard-cooked eggs, chopped fine
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce
1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 1/2 cups soft bread crumbs
1 cup ham, finely chopped

Combine the salt, Worcestershire sauce and prepared mustard with the chopped eggs. Heat the cream of mushroom soup and add the chopped eggs (with seasonings), soft bread crumbs and chopped ham. Heat and cook 4-5 minutes. Let cool for 2-3 hours. Mold into croquettes.

Breading for Croquettes:

Flour
Fine crumbs
1 egg, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons water
Dip the croquettes in a mixture of the flour and fine bread crumbs (1/2 flour and 3/4 crumbs), then in the egg mixed with milk or water, and roll in fine crumbs at the last. Fry in hot, deep fat (365°-385°F.) for 2-5 minutes or until golden brown. Makes 8 croquettes.

The biggest potato show of the state is to be held Friday and Saturday of this week at the Cohocton Union School. This show is sponsored by the Steuben County Farm Bureau. It will consist of exhibits of several varieties of potatoes with about 150 entries in competition for blue ribbons. An exhibit of odd shaped tubers and an exhibit of old time varieties will also be held.

In addition to the show, noted speakers will give talks throughout the two day session.

The potato growing industry in Northern Steuben County has been given considerable impetus during the past two years by the incoming of growers from Maine. These men purchased abandoned or partly abandoned farms, which had good potato soil, although lacking in fertility, and by applying recommended methods have secured yields of 300 bushels to the acre.

Steuben County is the largest potato growing county of New York State excluding Long Island, although Southern Steuben County has fewer acres of potatoes than the northern part, but due to the fact that many students have potato projects this vicinity is expected to increase its potato yield.

If the roads are passable a number of students of the advanced classes of Addison Agriculture department will attend the meetings.

Due to the fact that mechanical difficulties were encountered on the buses on the trip to Farm and Home Week many of the events which had been scheduled to take place with the local students in attendance, were not attended due to too late arrival. Some of the judging events were cancelled for the same reason. The events attended and those who judged are as follows:

Dairy cattle, swine and horse judging, Paul Thomson; potatoes, Warren Perkins; poultry, Walter Morseman; milk, James Strauss; plant diseases, Marvin Snyder; tree identification, Russell Wollman. Events which were not attended were shop and seed contests. The storm prevented further trips during the week.

ASK The Scientist

Below are answers to timely scientific questions prepared by the Science Board of the Radio Workshop at Syracuse university composed of members of the university's science faculty.

Readers who desire to have scientific questions answered may send them to the New York Press Association, The Castle, Syracuse, N. Y. The Board will answer each week those questions it considers of greatest interest and timeliness.

QUESTION. If Holland were attacked and should flood its lowlands to what depth could this territory be covered with water? Would the water freeze in winter thus aiding rather than hindering an invader? What effect would such flooding have on the soil over a long period of time?

ANSWER. Holland is a little country about one-fourth of the area of New York State and it all lies near sea level elevation. More than 35 per cent of the land lies less than 3 1/2 feet above the Amsterdam level, which is the standard of elevation in Holland so that it easily could be flooded to a depth of from one foot to a maximum of 15 to 16 feet.

The Dutch canals freeze in the coldest weather but it is rare to have any appreciable depth of ice on rivers and larger canals. The water which might be used in flooding would come from the Meuse and Rhine rivers and from the sea which it salt. Salt water freezes at 28 degrees Fahrenheit, a temperature four degrees lower than that at which fresh water freezes.

The Zuider Zee which is a salty body of water rarely freezes. The one occasion in history, however, on which cavalry captured a fleet was brought about by one of the rare freezes in such water. During the French revolution, the Dutch ships were frozen in the ice, unable to move. French cavalry advanced right across the ice and captured the fleet.

Possible damage to the soil from flooding would depend upon the type of water involved and the length of time during which the soil was under water. Fresh-water flooding helps soil if not continued more than one season, a maximum of a year. Salt water flooding definitely and seriously damages soil for agricultural purposes.—Prof. Nelson C. Brown, forester; Dr. Sidman Peole, geographer.

QUESTION. Is it true that a torpedo is a miniature submarine in itself?

ANSWER. The fact that the submarine and the torpedo can propel themselves under water might justify the statement that the latter is a submarine in itself. Further, the submarine and the torpedo are similar in construction. A torpedo has an air chamber, steering compartment, and engine room—compartments similar to those in a submarine.

The important part of a torpedo, however, is the front compartment called the head which contains the high explosive. This feature is a definite departure from the construction of the sub.

A torpedo is cigar-shaped, usually from 15 to 21 inches in diameter and from 15 to 21 feet in length. Self-driven, it requires no human being aboard as an operator but when once launched from a submarine or torpedo boat is steered by a gyroscopic mechanism. The torpedo travels at a speed of 30 to 36 miles per hour and has a range of 2,000 to 3,000 yards, a little over a mile.—Dr. W. R. Fredrickson, physicist.

QUESTION. Has anything scientific been accomplished by Antarctic exploration and, if so, what are the principal contributions?

ANSWER. Early explorers who went down to Antarctica with Scott, Amundsen, and others were animated by a spirit of sportsmanship. They wanted to be the first at the South Pole; they wanted to do things that other persons had never done, largely for the satisfaction of their sporting instincts.

In recent years, more and more of the Antarctic expeditions have had scientific aims and some of these are of very great importance to the scientific world in general.

QUESTION. Is it harder to row a boat in cold water than in warm water, and, if so, why?

ANSWER. Fishermen have a common tradition that cold water is heavier than warm water and that a boat goes harder in cold water. This belief has a scientific basis.

The three factors of surface tension, density and viscosity of water might be questioned as being of importance in causing a boat to row harder in cold water. Of these three factors, the only one which varies appreciably between cold and warm water is viscosity.

How, What and Why

This paper has arranged with the Office of Information of the New York State College of Agriculture and Home Economics to answer questions about problems of farm and home. If you enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope, and mention the name of this paper, you will receive a direct reply to your query from the colleges. Do not ask more than one question in one letter or on one post card. Ask as many questions as you like, but make each one a separate communication.

Dried Fruits and Vegetables

Mrs. T. R. M. asks: "Can you give me any information on the food value of dried fruits and vegetables? We eat plenty of them during the winter because they are cheaper than canned or fresh ones. A neighbor says that they are not so good for you and don't give the right food values. Is this true?"

Miss Lorna Barber of the foods and nutrition department answers: "It is true that dried fruits and vegetables have a lower food value than fresh ones. However, most of the minerals and some of the vitamins are retained in them, and they are excellent foods for the money."

"Vitamin C, which is the least stable of the vitamins, is not so strong in dehydrated foods; but if such foods are eaten in addition to enough fresh fruits and vegetables to allow for this, there is no reason why dried fruits and vegetables should not be used. As you say, they are less expensive, especially during the winter months, and they may be prepared in many ways."

Concrete Floors

T. L. D., writes: "Please send me literature on the building of a concrete floor in a small dairy barn."

Professor A. M. Goodman of the agricultural engineering department answers: "We have sent you Cornell bulletin E-140 entitled 'The Construction of Concrete Floors for Dairy Stables'. If you have other questions, after looking over this publication, please let us hear from you again."

"Gone With the Wind"

Now Showing Thru Tues. At Schine's Fox Theatre

Thomas Mitchell, playing Gerald O'Hara, Scarlett's father, in "Gone with the Wind", now showing at the Fox Theatre, brings to the screen a new accent, one which may sound strange to Dixie ears, yet is true to the character of Margaret Mitchell's best-seller novel. Gerald, according to the book, came to America from County Meade, Ireland, and by his wit and determination acquired land in Georgia's rolling red clay hills. From an adventuring Irish man he turned into a Southern gentleman, master of Tara plantation. Through association with neighbors his rich brogue became softened by a Dixie drawl. He spoke with neither a pure brogue nor the soft accents peculiar to the South, but with a mixture of both. The task of learning two dialects held no terrors for Mitchell who is regarded one of the screen's most versatile men. He has scored successes not only in a variety of stage and screen roles but as a playwright, director and producer.

Poitras Completes Legion Oratory Plans For April

Leo J. Poitras, Bath, is general chairman for the Steuben County American Legion Oratorical contest to be held in Addison High School. Principal Irving Gladstone of the Addison High School is in charge of a program to be given in conjunction with the speaking. The contest will be held Thursday night April 4, at 7:45 o'clock.

Judges for the contest will be: Mrs. Leslie D. Kimble, Corning; Warren Hertenstein, Wayland; G. J. Carter, Avoca; Mrs. Roy Wildman, Hammondsport and Charles Antony of Bradford, the last four being school officials.

This will be the second annual contest sponsored by the Steuben Legionnaires for high school students. To date Painted Post, Addison, Hornell, Bath, Canisteo, and Cohocton have entered candidates.

Winners of the district contest in Addison will represent the district at the Rochester meeting from where winners will go to Albany to compete for a state prize. Silver and bronze medals will be awarded first and second place winners in Addison.

Preliminary contests are to be held under post auspices in the various communities in the country. Mr. Poitras will preside as chairman at the county contest and Mr. Gladstone will head the timers with County Commander Elmer Bovee. Edward J. Valley, Corning; Clifford House, Hornell and Paul Beuerlin, Wayland as a committee to report to the judges.

Interest Strong To Hear Jan Savitt Orchestra

The fact that Jan Savitt is to bring his orchestra to these parts has met with instant and widespread interest. Folks of all ages are keenly aware of the importance of this initial appearance of a "big name" dance band. Tickets for the affair are selling in a most satisfying and encouraging way, and are now on sale at the Jimerson-Ford Drug Store, in the Baron Steuben Hotel; Keenan Drug Store corner of Bridge and Pultney streets; Tillman's Drug Store, Painted Post and Webster's Cigar Store, Pine street.

The individual members of Theta Phi Fraternity are making every effort to assure the success of this party, leaving no detail undone. James Kling, president of the Corning organization has named the following committees: Tickets, LeRoy Goodyear and Fred Stoquert; decorations, William Dorman, Richard Reed and William Timm; program, David Cheney and Julian Costello; refreshments, Arthur Moran, William Herschel, William Brink, Kenneth Cowles and "Bud" Brew; checking, William Knowles, Leon Goodyear Edward Illig, Bruce Grant, Joseph Hickey.

Plans are being made to run buses from Corning to Elmira and directly to Grotto Park, Monday evening, March 4th, at a small charge. These busses will leave Corning about nine o'clock and returning after the party is over.

Bringing the Savitt organization here is a major undertaking for these young men of Theta Phi, and their courage is to be commended in many ways. It is hoped that sufficient interest will be shown to warrant other parties and other outstanding dance bands. The one way you can show your interest and endorsement is to buy tickets.

Stork Close Second in Race to Bath Hospital

The Hornell Tribune of Wednesday carries a dramatic story of a stork and ambulance race in which Dr. Stafford Whitmore was a participant. The stork lost the race. Snow-blocked highways caused a 17-mile trip to be dragged to two hours with the stork racing along with the car all the way. But the baby was born at the emergency entrance of the Bath Hospital, when hospital attendants were unable to bring the mother to the delivery room of the hospital in time. Dr. Whitmore cared for the woman and an eight-pound boy and his mother are now recuperating in Bath Hospital.

Emergency Crop Loans Supervisor in Bath Feb. 26

A cordial invitation is extended to the general public to attend the Addison Grange meeting Friday night in the newly renovated Grange Hall. Two speakers of outstanding merit have been secured for the program. The first speaker will be Walter Johnson of the Soil Conservation Department who will speak on the work and aims of his department. Samuel Brightman, special agent for a Massachusetts Insurance Company and past state master of the Massachusetts Grange will also speak. Thomas Kane, Jr., will preside at this meeting, which should prove most interesting to Grangers, those interested in the Grange and in any phase of soil conservation.

Elmira—Alexander D. Falck and Stephen M. Lounsbury are expected to be the delegates to the National Republican Convention from the 37th Congressional District.

Silver Springs—John Brennan fell into a brine tank outside the Worcester Salt Company plant and was there three hours in zero weather before being discovered. He is recuperating.

Belmont is laying claim to being a healthy village. Only two of 18 deaths were of people under 50. Fourteen were over 70.

Senator Urges Citizens Oppose Big Budget

Every family in this locality, and elsewhere, pays an average of $125 a year to the state, according to State Senator Thomas C. Desmond, of Orange County, member of the Senate Finance Committee, who, in a communication to this newspaper, urges local citizens to continue their protests against the proposed increased state income tax.

"Our state budget," he points out, "has more than doubled in the past fifteen years. Now Governor Lehman wants $396,700,000 for 1940, to be financed in part by increasing the income tax on persons of moderate incomes. Citizens of each community in the state should continue to bombard the State Capitol with their protests until defeat of this vicious tax is definitely assured.

"The proposed increased levy on persons of moderate income will hit the most productive group in our state, the great middle class which creates employment and manages small and medium size businesses. The proposed tax will drive business out of the state, discourage new enterprises and result in more unemployment. State expenses, amounting to $125 per family annually, have already become a crushing burden.

Supper and Conference In Methodist Church Monday Night

The Rev. Dr. C. C. Peale, district superintendent of the Methodist Church for the Hornell District, will pay an official visitation to Addison charge Monday night, February 26. There will be a parish picnic supper at 6:30 o'clock to which every member of the church and their families are invited.

The first quarterly conference for the charge will be held after the supper with Dr. Peale in charge. There will be the reading of reports of the officers, church committees and church organizations. The Rev. Nicholas Van Cossaboon will have charge of the meeting for the local group.

An urgent invitation is extended to all members of the congregation to take part in the supper and in the business meeting which will follow.

Geneseo—Barbers here have reduced their prices to 35 cents for haircut and 20 cents for shaves.

High state expenses, "Senator Desmond concluded, "cause high taxes which, in turn, stagnate business and produce unemployment. This evil chain of cause and effect can be broken at the start by reducing excessive governmental expenses, waste and extravagance."

MRS. HERMAN CLARK

Mrs. Herman Clark, 52, died last Tuesday and was buried Friday afternoon February 16, 1940 in the Tuscarora Township Cemetery. The Rev. John V. Axtell of the Addison Presbyterian Church officiated. Bearers were: Preston Ferris, Leon Andrews, Matthew Stewart, Ralph Hand, Beldon Ackerson and Fay Herrington.

Railroads of State Pay $40,000,000 Taxes $149,000,000 in Wages in a Year

With taxation the all-absorbing problem before the State Legislature at Albany as well as in the Congress, the annual tax report issued yesterday by the Associated Railroads of New York State is of more than usual interest. Copies of the report will be placed immediately in the hands of all members of the State Legislature and other State officials as well as educators and students of taxation generally.

Steam railroads operating in New York State paid in taxes within the State for 1938 (the last year for which such figures are available) the huge sum of $36,410,013. This payment, which made the railroads as a group the largest taxpayer in the State, was exclusive of the railroads' federal taxes. The federal taxes allocated to the State for the same year were $4,074,544, making a total of $40,484,557.

These taxes contributed tremendously toward the support of schools, highways, police and fire protection and other governmental services. As much as sixty per cent of the entire school taxes levied in some school districts of the State was paid by the railroads. It is estimated that $8,507,000 of railroad taxes was allocated to the support of public schools of New York in 1938. The average cost of public school education in the State, based upon current expenses and average daily attendance, was $147.65 per pupil in 1937-1938 according to the United States Office of Education. On this basis, railroad taxes used for school purposes in this State were sufficient to defray the annual cost to the public of educating 57,600 boys and girls.

The many imposts laid on the railroads by the State and Federal governments are indicated by the following:

NEW YORK STATE TAXES
Real Property	$30,973,355
Capital Stock	720,386
Gross Earnings	361,554
Unemployment Insurance	3,947,293
Administration of Workmen's Compensation Law, P. S. C.
Fees, Gasoline, Vehicle Licenses and other miscellaneous	39,513
New York City—Gross Earnings, Personal Property and Occupation	311,312
New York City—Sales	56,100
	$36,410,013
FEDERAL TAXES—APPLICABLE TO NEW YORK STATE OPERATIONS
Net Income and Undistributed and Excess Profits	$ 375,039
Capital Stock	121,996
Unemployment Insurance	275,876
Old Age Insurance	3,293,371
Excise and other Miscellaneous	8,262
	$ 4,074,544
GRAND TOTAL	$40,484,557

Approximately twelve per cent of the millions paid by the railroads in taxes went toward the maintenance of the State's highways.

Further study of the tax report shows that in the purchase of materials and in maintenance of their properties the railroads made even a much greater contribution than the tax payments. In one year the expenditure for materials, supplies and fuel totaled $68,543,905, and this was spread over 488 cities and towns in the State, located in 61 of the State's 62 counties.

The greatest contribution of all to the economic life of the State was made by the railroads in payments to their employees. The total number of employees for the year 1938 was 88,034 and the total sum paid to them amounted to $149,556,072.

From 1900 to 1938 inclusive the State and its local governments collected $636,045,176 in taxes from the railroads, not including tax payments since 1917 of more than twenty Class 2 and Class 3 railroads and switching and terminal companies in the State.

While the railroads were making these tremendous payments in taxes, in wages and in purchases, they were, according to the report, also increasing the speed of their trains, air-conditioning cars, streamlining trains, reducing passenger and freight rates and improving safety conditions generally. The railroads were also increasing the average hourly wage to their employees, increasing the power of the steam locomotives and increasing their freight train loads.

Dairymen's Income From Pooled Milk Boosted in January

Steuben county farmers last month delivered 5,500,019 pounds of milk to plants approved for the metropolitan area, according to E. M. Harmon, Market Administrator. At the uniform price of $2.14 per hundred-weight this pooled milk has a value of $117,700.41. Some milk produced in this county is delivered to Pennsylvania plants at Elkland, Lawrenceville and Osceola, and is included in the total for Tioga County. This compares with 4,610,519 pounds valued at $99,587.21 for December. Under the terms of the Federal-State Orders, handlers are required to pay Steuben County producers for January milk on or before February 25.

Of course the price which producers will receive for their January milk will vary since only pooled milk is covered by the marketing order. For milk sold elsewhere the price is subject to agreement between handlers and producers. Then too, the price paid by cooperative associations or dairymen is covered by the contract between the association and their members.

There are six plants in Steuben County approved for the metropolitan area, and the uniform price of $2.14 is subject to minus freight differentials of 3/4 cents at Addison, Bath and Campbell, 4/4 cents at Prattsburg, and 5/4 cents at Wallace. The uniform price will also be affected by plus or minus differentials for milk testing above or below 3.5 butterfat content.

In January 392,350,405 pounds of milk were included in the market wide pool. This compares with a final figure of 359,901,836 pounds a year ago at a uniform price of $1.88. In January 1939 final utilization figures, showed that Class I milk absorbed 58% and Class II-A 19% of the pooled milk. In January 1940 the respective percentages are 52.8% and 19.03%.

Funeral Services Held For George Wilson

Funeral services for George Wilson were held at 2:00 p. m. Monday from the Methodist Church in Cooper Plains. The service at the church was preceded by a prayer service at the late home of the deceased. The Rev. Carl J. Grabb, minister of the Painted Post Presbyterian Church officiated, assisted by the Rev. Lee Vaughn, also of Painted Post. Burial was in Cooper Plains cemetery.

The death of Mr. Wilson occurred at his home in Cooper Plains following an illness of several weeks. George Wilson was born November 7, 1862 in the town of Rathbone and was the son of Peter and Hannah Perry Wilson. He married Miss Margaret Noble of E. Belknap, December 11, 1901 and for many years they resided in the town of Rathbone. About fifteen years ago they purchased a home near Painted Post where they resided until about two years ago when they sold that place and purchased the home in Cooper Plains.

Mr. Wilson spent the greater part of his life in agricultural work. He was a fine type of citizen and esteemed by all with whom he came in contact.

Besides his wife his survivors include a son, Warren Wilson and a granddaughter, Carol Anne Wilson of Painted Post; two sisters, Miss Clara Wilson of Rathbone and Mrs. John Stewart of Monterey, a number of nieces and nephews. A brother, John Wilson, died just three weeks ago.

DINNER POSTPONED

Dish For This Week

"Can she bake a cherry pie, Billy boy, Billy boy?" — Yes, say good cooks—and other cherry dishes, too, such as this baked cherry pudding, suggested by the New York State College of Home Economics:

Baked Cherry Pudding
(about 8 servings)
2 cups of flour
4 teaspoons of baking powder
1 teaspoon of salt
2 tablespoons of sugar
4 tablespoons of shortening
¼ cup of milk
2 cups of pitted canned red cherries
½ cup of sugar
2 tablespoons of butter
Sift together the flour, baking powder, salt and sugar, and cut or rub in the shortening. Add the milk, mix it with the dry ingredients and spread the mixture out thin in a deep buttered baking dish. Drain the cherries, spread them over the top of the batter in the dish, and sprinkle the sugar over the top. Then dot the top with butter and bake the pudding in a moderate oven (about 375 degrees F.) for 30 to 35 minutes. Serve with cherry sauce.

Cherry Sauce
Cherry syrup from the canned cherries.
2 tablespoons of sugar
2 tablespoons of cornstarch
Mix the sugar and cornstarch, add the cherry syrup, and cook the mixture gently until it is clear and creamy, stirring it constantly. Serve it over the pudding; also serve whipped cream, if it is desired.

A Washington's birthday dinner might include: fricassee chicken, mashed potatoes, Harvard beets, salad of greens, cherry pudding, milk for the children, and coffee, tea or milk for the adults.

4-H CLUB MEETS —
The Betsey Ross 4-H Club held a meeting Monday evening at the home of the leader, Mrs. Earle Brown. The lesson on baking oatmeal cookies was demonstrated. Because of illness and weather conditions the attendance was small.

Present were: Sara Peters, Ruth Esthey Davis, Carmen Hackett and Esther Herrington.

Mrs. M. Cilley Hostess To Ladies Aid Society

Mrs. Minnie Cilley entertained members of the Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist Church at her home Tuesday afternoon of last week.

Officers were elected for the year 1940 as follows: President, Mrs. Frances Williams; vice president, Mrs. Una Husted; secretary, Mrs. Mary Symonds; treasurer, Mrs. Cora Rouse. Mrs. Cilley was elected a delegate to a meeting of the Consolidated Women's Organizations of the Methodist Church to be held in Hornell, March 12.

Attending the meeting were: The Rev. and Mrs. John Held of Troupsburg, Mrs. Frances Williams, daughter Suzanne, Mrs. Una Husted, Mrs. Marie Bentley and son Kenneth, Mrs. Kathleen Williams and daughter Janet, Mrs. Henry Carpenter, Mrs. Parke Boyd, Mrs. Cora Rouse, Mrs. Mary Park, Mrs. Mary Peters, Mrs. Jennie Ten Broeck and the hostess, Mrs. Cilley.

Funeral Held For Mrs. M. Hargrave

The funeral of Mrs. Martha Hargrave was held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Methodist Church following a prayer at the home at 1:30 o'clock. The Rev. David H. Davis of the Woodhull Baptist Church officiated. Burial was made in the family plot in the Woodhull Cemetery.

Mrs. Hargrave's death occurred late Wednesday afternoon following an illness of several weeks. She was born in Jasper, the daughter of Alonzo and Mary Wood Belcher.

In April 1896 she married Charles Hargrave and to them one son, Perry was born. Both Mr. Hargrave and son died several years ago, leaving Mrs. Hargrave to manage the farm on the Pulteney Hill road where she has resided.

Deceased is survived by one brother, George Belcher, a niece, Mrs. Geneva Snyder and nephew, Raymond Belcher all of Woodhull.

The bearers were: Leslie Woyner, Waldo Symonds, Wilson Moyer, Walter Reynolds, Frank Preston and John P. Miller.

ENJOY SKIING PARTY—

A party of six boys and girls from Cornell University enjoyed skiing on the hillside of the Roy Herrington farm Saturday afternoon.

As the group neared the village their car came head on with the parked car of Carl Decker of Bath a short distance from the South bridge. No one was injured and only slight damage done to the cars.

CONDORSORT — Gerald E. Towner, for 35 years a resident of this community died. He had been a salesman for the American Silver Truss Company and was well known throughout the east. He died on his 73rd birthday.

HEATING HINTS .. by John Barclay

DO YOU know that the greatest waste in connection with home heating is what heating experts call "chimney loss"—the heat wasted up the chimney?

It is a simple matter to reduce this loss to an absolute minimum by using a little care in adjusting the Turn Damper—(that disc or plate-like damper inside the smoke pipe). Let me explain how this is done:

The next time you fix the fire, move the handle of the Turn Damper 1/16th of an inch toward the closed up-right position.

If the fire continues to burn freely, turn it another sixteenth of an inch. Repeat this operation until you find the ideal adjustment that will give you the greatest amount of useful heat with the minimum of chimney loss. Then take a piece of chalk and mark this position on the smoke pipe and leave the damper there.

Remember, the nearer the Turn Damper is to the closed position: the smaller the chimney loss. (7)

Mrs. Earl Brown Hostess To Philathea Class

Mrs. Earle Brown was hostess to members of the Philathea Class of the Baptist Sunday School at her home Tuesday afternoon of last week. Because of the illness of Mrs. LaRue Symonds the meeting place was changed.

Scripture was read by Mrs. Jabe Johnson following a social afternoon.

A picnic lunch was served to the following: Mrs. James Hibbard, Mrs. Henry Myers, Elwyn Ten Broeck, Mrs. Walter Reynolds, Homer Morton, Mrs. David H. Davis, Mrs. Mary Wheeler and the hostess, Mrs. Brown.

A sleigh ride party was enjoyed Friday evening and later the participants were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Kirk on the Addison-Woodhull road.

The group included Mr. and Mrs. Neil Kilmer, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cady, Miss Carmen Hackett, Miss Kirk, Rex Hargrave and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Kirk.

Stolen Woodhull Car Found

The Ford car owned by George R. Woodward, Woodhull veterinarian, was stolen from Main street in Woodhull late Monday night. State and county police have been seeking the car since that time and located it late Tuesday night on Mt. Washington, near Hammondsport.

Instruments and other articles of value had been removed from the car which was found in a deep snow drift. The car was a black coupe and all highways in the vicinity had been watched since its disappearance. Sgt. Charles G. Burnett of the State Police Erwins sub-station found the car. He believes that the instruments are near the car, but had not been found at the time of this writing.

County Committee Plans Farm Program Signup

Committeemen and field supervisors of the Agricultural Conservation Program met at Bath Monday to plan the method of the 1940 sign up. Leon Dennis of Canisteo, county chairman, presided.

With 2760 enrolled last year, the group estimated a 1940 enrollment of three thousand. The sign up will begin about April 15.

The preservation of the soil, most important of the nation's resources was cited by Lawrence Draper, field agent from the state office, as the objective of the program.

In every one of the three thousand counties of the United States land has been diverted from the production of cash crops that drain fertility of the soil and sown to crops that tend to increase fertility and prevent erosion. That and the reduction of the production of certain surplus crops to market needs are the major objectives of this program, Mr. Draper stated.

As in former years, the sign up will be conducted at numerous sub-stations as well as in the county office. Eligible to all farmers, the program offers payments for the application of lime and phosphate, the seeding of legumes for meadow and pasture, and the reforestation of idle land.

County Solons Advocate Many Law Changes

Dale D. Baker, Greenwood supervisor presided at his first session Monday, as chairman since his elevation. There were 23 supervisors present, others being detained because of snowbound roads throughout the county.

The county jury system was discussed by the members of the Supervisory Committee and the members of the committee of the Steuben County Bar Association, with the object in view of changing the present jury selection system to save the taxpayers money.

The board is also in favor of the permanent registration provision of the law proposed in the state legislature whereby any person once registered for voting would be registered permanently provided he voted at least once every five years.

The Board also went on record as favoring amendments to the Public Welfare Law to provide reimbursement upon hospitalization for relief cases, amend public health and domestic relations laws to require town and village clerks to file death certificates with county clerk, recommended the imposition of a toll for use of the Barge Canal and finally voted a resolution of tribute to the late Elisha Putnam, former Tuscarora Supervisor.

Perry — The Rev. Adelbert Cichy received the first word of his sister in Poland from the Red Cross. She is in a Warsaw Hospital where she has been since the German invasion.

COMMUNICATION

Mr. Maurice Miller, Addison, N. Y. My dear Sir:

This is to inform you that unless something is done by the people of Addison, and quickly, to save the Addison dam, the U. S. Gov't, acting through the War Department, will proceed soon to destroy this beautiful part of the river here. They have now decided upon this, unless reasons other than those so far presented, are given to alter this decision. I, as an Addison citizen have received a letter to this effect from the U. S. War Department this week (February 16).

Addison people are very materially interested. Addison is their home. The destruction of this dam is their loss; and a big loss too. Probably 95% of Addison citizens are opposed to the demolition of this dam; and something should be done by them quickly if the result of this detestable scheme is to be averted. As a plain, ordinary citizen, and living outside of the town, I naturally feel that I cannot be the first to act in opposing this ruin; especially since with the older ones, like myself, only a few years remain of life anyway. Most of our lifetime is of the past. But others who are still in the midst of life's interests—these should be interested enough, at least, to answer when others are ready to help in efforts to save the dam.

In the opinion of the writer, there is plenty that can be done. In fact I think I know of ways that this demolition can be utterly stopped. But as plain John Q. Citizen only and without encouragement or manifest interest of others in the matter I refuse to get "het up" or excited, even if the beautiful river in Addison is to be converted into a dirty foul-smelling ditch.

I believe that I could engineer this matter so as to stop the destruction of this dam, if others were willing to share the slight burden of efforts to do so. The best way would be to hire an attorney for this part.

If you, Mr. Reader, are interested in this matter, a reply from you, suggesting what you think could be done—such a reply would be very welcome. Would you say a wide organization? or merely a small group of interested and able citizens to act upon their own, to handle the matter?—or what?

I am,
Yours very truly,
Emery H. Chase,
Addison, N. Y.

To the Editor:
I note at our next election we are to vote on the proposition of buying a new fire truck. The question is do we NEED a new fire truck at this time? Is it necessary to go to that expense with conditions as they are now? If the present fire truck does the work why buy a new one? Taxpayers have all they can do to pay present taxes without assuming new ones. IT IS UP TO THE TAXPAYERS TO VOTE THIS PROPOSITION DOWN.

Two Local Girls on Nazareth Dean's List

Miss Eleanor P. Hogue of Addison and Miss Margaret Cowley of Erwins have been named to the Dean's List for high scholastic standing received during the first semester at Nazareth College, Rochester. The requirements for this honor is an average of 90 per cent or more in their studies.

Miss Hogue, who was valedictorian of the Class of 1935 in Addison High School, is the holder of a State University Scholarship and also a full tuition college scholarship.

Miss Cowley was one of the honor students in the senior class of 1937 at Corning Northside High School, where she was crowned May Queen in her junior year. She is a student in the secretarial department at Nazareth College.

Miss Hogue, a senior in the School of Education, where she is majoring in History and Social Studies and minoring in English, has just completed four weeks of practice teaching during which time she conducted classes at the John Marshall High School in Rochester for two weeks and at the Honeoye High School for two weeks also, thus acquainting herself with school routine and History problems in both city and town schools.

Mrs. Jesse Cole Died Wednesday

Mrs. Lida Cole, 68, Rathbone, died early Wednesday morning, February 21, 1940 in the Corning Hospital of pneumonia. She has been ill for the past month.

Mrs. Cole was born Lida Bowyer, daughter of John Bowyer and Emma Mathers. She was born in the town of Rathbone, January 8, 1872 and received her early education there. She became the bride of John Orcutt, who died several years ago. Deceased then became the bride of Jesse Cole, who survives her with a brother, Charles Bowyer.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon with a prayer service in the home at 1:30 o'clock and in the Rathbone Methodist Church at 2 o'clock. The Rev. Nicholas Van Cossaboon will officiate. Burial will be in the Town Line cemetery.

BORDEN PLAY DATE CHANGED

The home talent play "Brown-eyed Betty" which was scheduled to be held in Borden Baptist Church Friday evening has been postponed to Wednesday evening February 28. It was deemed advisable to make this change because of weather and road conditions.

Mansfield — A Father and Son banquet has been planned for Mansfield, one in a series in the district to observe National Boy Scout Anniversary Week.

Faculty Party Monday Night

Tribute to the two American heroes whose birthdays are observed this month will be paid by members of the Faculty of the Addison High School at a party to be held in the Eagle Hotel Monday night at 6:30 o'clock. Mrs. John Hopper is chairman for the group in charge of the affair. There will be appropriate decorations, songs, a game program and other interesting events.

Danville — A $100,000 sewage plant asked for will replace a system built in 1904.

Mt. Morris — The Ayrshire herd of Percy Culberson of this place leads all herds of that breed in the United States in Production.
